

John Goodrich (b. 1955)
www.johngoodrich.net
www.onviewat.com
jgoodric@haverford.edu

John Goodrich is a painter and a writer on art who lives and works in the New York City area. His drawings and paintings have appeared in numerous exhibitions, including solo shows at Bowery Gallery in New York City and the Contemporary Realist Gallery in San Francisco, as well as group exhibitions at Elizabeth Harris Gallery, Kouros Gallery, Lori Bookstein Fine Art, and many other galleries. His work has been reviewed in The New York Times, The New York Sun, The New York Observer, The New Haven Register and other publications.

A writer on art, he was a regular contributor to Review magazine, The New York Sun, Artcritical.com, and Hyperallergic.com. He has also written numerous exhibition catalogue essays. He currently publishes the blog www.onviewat.com.

Mr. Goodrich has taught studio art classes at the University of California at Santa Barbara, Long Island University (Brooklyn campus), Marymount College, Queens College (Continuing Education), Western Connecticut State University and Borough of Manhattan Community College. He currently teaches at Haverford College. He has participated in panel discussions at the National Academy School of Art, Haverford College, the Art Students League, the Lancaster Museum of Art and other venues.

He attended the New York Studio School and the University of California at Santa Barbara, where he received a BFA in painting in 1978. He attended the Skowhegan School of Painting and Sculpture in the summer of 1974.